A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on August 16, 2006 has been entered.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Applicant does not clearly teach what is encompassed by "reduced water uptake." The specification does not define this phrase and the use of this phrase does not clearly set forth limits on the claims.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kunz et al (US Patent No. 5578339) and Willibald-Ettle et al (US Patent No. 6248386) for the reasons set forth in rejecting claims in the last office action.

Kunz et al disclose the use of 1,1-GPM and sorbitol in candy (see entire patent, especially claims 5, 8, 21, and 22).

Willibald-Ettle et al disclose hard caramels comprising 1,1-GPM and sorbitol (see entire patent, especially claims 9 and 12).

The claims differ as to the specific amounts employed.

In the absence of a showing to the contrary, the amounts employed are no matter than a matter of choice and well-within the skill of the art and at most are deemed optimization, In re Boesch 205 USPQ 215. Applicant is using known components for their art-recognized function to obtain expected results.

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made to use the claimed percentages in either Kunz et al or Willibald-Ettle et al because the use and manipulation of both 1,1-GPM and sorbitol are conventional in the production of hard candies such as caramels.

Applicant's arguments filed August 16, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the prior art teaches away from the claimed invention, that there is no motivation to combine the teachings of the prior art, and that the claimed invention provides unexpected results.

Both Kunz et al or Willibald-Ettle et al teach the conventional use of 1,1- GPM and sorbitol in the production of candy/caramel. In response to applicant's argument that there is no suggestion to combine the references, the examiner recognizes that obviousness can only be established by combining or modifying the teachings of the prior art to produce the claimed invention where there is some teaching, suggestion, or motivation to do so found either in the references themselves or in the knowledge generally available to one of ordinary skill in the art. See In re Fine, 837 F.2d 1071, 5 USPQ2d 1596 (Fed. Cir. 1988) and In re Jones, 958 F.2d 347, 21 USPQ2d 1941 (Fed. Cir. 1992). In this case, the prior art is directed to the conventional use of 1,1-GPM and sorbitol in the production of candy/caramel.

The declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 filed August 16, 2006 is insufficient to overcome the rejection of claims 1-12 based upon 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as set forth in the last Office action for the following reasons.

1) The showing is not commensurate in scope with the broadest claim. Claim 1 does not contain GPS nor does it list storage conditions. Applicant does not explain the choice of limitations. It is not apparent what results would be obtained at different conditions (e.g. a longer or shorter storage time). GPS is a limitation of claim 10.

2) There is no analysis of the data.
